Proverb on Elder Counsel: Hanna hannui shaiphamei

Resource Identifier: CULT-PROV-001

English Translation: Tender Greens are Tasty, but Elder Wisdom is Sweeter

Category: Proverb | Subcategory: Wisdom

Village / Region: Ukhrul | Dialect: Standard Tangkhul

Contributor / Source: Traditional Oral Lore (Kasomwoshi 1991, Kanrei 1978) (Documented in Tangkhul Chanjam)

License: Traditional Oral Heritage (Permissions: community_authorized)

Seasonal Timing / Occasion: Universal oral counsel

Ethnographic Summary & Context:

Original saying: 'Hanna hannui shaiphamei, tuiva arartui phamei.' Teaches that while youth possesses vigor and novelty, seasoned elder counsel holds enduring guidance for navigating life.

Indigenous Tangkhul Text / Chants / Sayings:

"Hanna hannui shaiphamei, tuiva arartui phamei."

English Translation & Meaning:

"Tender young wild greens are tasty, but elder wisdom is sweeter still."

Procedural Sequence / Observance Steps:

Oral proverb quoted during council discussions, family disputes, and elder mentoring.

Ceremonial Participants & Roles:

Village Elders, Family Mentors, Youth