[LIT-FLK-009] Kongyang wui Khararchan

Translation: The Story of the Cicada and the Lean Season

Work Type: FOLK_TALE | Creator: Tangkhul Storytellers & TLS Element | Year: 1981
Village: Hunphun | Dialect: Standard Tangkhul | Book ID: BK-TLS-015
Publisher / Source: Tangkhul Literature Society, Manipur
Clearance: Community Authorized | Permission: community_authorized | Status: verified

---

Themes: Diligence versus seasonal indolence (Luingao eina Khayak), Ecological awareness and adherence to agricultural cycles, Customary work

Structure & Meter: Moral animal fable in dialogue format with didactic cadence and cautio

---

Critical Overview: Recorded in early Tangkhul language readers and oral storytelling sessions. It echoes Aesopian parallels while reflecting the

---

Indigenous Tangkhul Literary Text / Stanzas:

Chikaning akhali ramli chiyan-ngachon kashung eina, kongyangna thing-pha
Chitharan yarwui mayarnaona phangyangli luikakhui eili mashun-mashun kha
Kongyangna ning-ngalungli 'Yarsho kachikha thithang meingalÆng, khipana
Kha kachikhangai yarthang vashungli mei-kacham eina kazing kaho rorkhava
Luilap kashung eili kongyangna yarwui mayarnaoli 'Ili kachama mikhuilu!'
Kongyangwui khararchan hi kakhayak khangarang kala luingao khangashan-wu

---

English Translation & Literary Rendering:

During the radiant season of spring, the cicada sat upon the oak branche
Meanwhile, the diligent youth of the village laboured under the scorchin
The cicada mocked them in lighthearted mirth: 'Summer is endless and swe
Yet when the bitter winds of winter arrived and heavy frost coated the f
Shivering at harvest's close, the cicada begged the farming youth for su
This ancient fable serves as an enduring customary lesson among the Tang

---

Key Poetic & Literary Vocabulary Terms:

* Kongyang : Cicada, associated in Tangkhul lore with seasonal
* Luingao : Paddy cultivation, hill terrace agriculture
* Chiyan-ngachon : Springtime when new shoots emerge on the mountain

---