DUNIYAWUI KHARARCHAN KATHARA: WORLD CLASSIC STORIES TRA

World Classic Short Stories in Tangkhul Naga

Author / Translator: Leo Tolstoy, Guy de Maupassant, O. Henry, Tangkhul Literature Society

Publisher: Tangkhul Literature Society, Imphal / Ukhrul

Publication Year: 1991 | Language: Tangkhul (Ukhrul Dialect)

PREFACE & TRANSLATION HISTORICAL CONTEXT

This anthology introduced Tangkhul secondary students to three monumental gems of world narrative prose. The translations demonstrate the narrative flexibility of modern standard Tangkhul, handling 19th-century Russian spiritual realism, French bourgeois tragedy, and American ironic compassion with equal brilliance.

Ngazing-tharan Martinna theitserie: 'Awui mai eina Christana hung-kachitheisaye: kasakei kachamnaobingli sakasashikahai ot pupup chi ili sakasashisaye!'

English Translation / Hindi Meaning:

In a little basement room in a certain city lived Martin Avdeitch, a cobbler. Every evening he read the Gospels until his heart burned within him. One night he heard a voice calling him: 'Martin, look out into the street tomorrow, for I will come.' Next day, while watching out the window, he saw Stepanitch clearing snow, shivering in rags; he called him in and gave him warm tea. Later he sheltered a poor mother with a child wrapped in thin garments and gave her his cloak and money. At dusk he realized: Christ had indeed visited him that day, for 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.'

CHAPTER 1 -- VOCABULARY & GRAMMAR

Vocabulary Entries:

 shoemaker (noun): Kakhut-chon kasa mi (cobbler, leather artisan)

Ex: Martin shoemaker.

 meikhangahui (noun): warm fireplace, hearth fire

Ex: Meikhangahui tharili.

 kachamnaobing (noun): the poor, marginalized brethren

Ex: Kachamnaobingli sakasa.

Grammar Notes & Idiomatic Usage:

- Direct quote attribution in Tangkhul narrative: 'hoda leisai' / 'hoda hang'.
- Spiritual realization clause: 'Awui mai eina Christana hung-kachitheisaye'.

Comprehension & Exercises:

[?] What three people did Martin encounter during the snowy day?

[?] Explain the ethical message of Tolstoy's story.

CHAPTER 1 -- LITERARY & CULTURAL COMMENTARY

Translation Analysis & Cultural Adaptation:
This chapter presents nuanced translation strategies adapting foreign metaphors to Tangkhul cultural idioms.

Dialectal & Orthographic Concordance:

Standard Ukhrul phonology is reflected throughout. Verbal affixes and agentive postpositions are preserved according to the classic orthographic canon.

CHAPTER 2: THE NECKLACE (KHANGAPHEI WUI PHASANG) -- GUY DE MAUPASSANT

Summary: Mathilde Loisel borrowing the diamond necklace, losing it at the ball, and toili...

Tangkhul Text:

Khararchan 2: Mathilde Loisel kaho ngalashana kapha akha pamsai; kha ana kashang-pha sapha-kashangli pamei lungkakhui leisai. Ministry-wui grand ball phanitli valakhavai ana awui ngalemwui Madame Forestier eina diamond necklace (phasang) khuiye. Ball phanitli mathat-eina pheichak salaga, shimli hung-kaphung tharan, theilu! Kum thakhara ngaphalaga ana Madame Forestierli champsangie; chitharan Forestierna hang: 'Oh, Mathilde! Iwui phasang chi paste (artificial) sai! Awui value 500 francs kacham-sai!'

English Translation / Hindi Meaning:

Mathilde Loisel was a charming woman born into a family of clerks who dreamed of wealth and luxury. Invited to a grand ball at the Ministry, she borrowed a magnificent diamond necklace from her wealthy friend Madame Forestier. She was the belle of the ball, but arriving home, discovered to her horror that the necklace was lost. Rather than admit the loss, she and her husband worked ten grueling years in squalor and debt to purchase a replacement necklace for thirty-six thousand francs. Ten years later, meeting Madame Forestier in the park, aged and haggard, she learned the devastating truth: 'Oh my poor Mathilde! Mine was false! It was worth at most five hundred francs!'

CHAPTER 2 -- VOCABULARY & GRAMMAR

Vocabulary Entries:

 phasang (noun): necklace, jewel collar ornament

Ex: Diamond phasang.

 ngashiman-serie (verb): lost irrevocably, vanished

Ex: Phasang chi ngashiman-serie.

 kashakashi ot (noun): drudgery, crushing physical toil

Ex: Ten years kashakashi ot.

Grammar Notes & Idiomatic Usage:

- Tangkhul dramatic ironic reversal marker: 'theilu!' (Behold!).
- French loanword handling: francs and ball phonetically adapted in Tangkhul narrative prose.

Comprehension & Exercises:

[?] Describe Mathilde's character flaws and their consequences.

[?] How does the story highlight the folly of excessive pride?

Athum khaniwui gift ngashiman thada theilashu, athumna magibing thada kaphamei khangayei eina kashang thotna.

English Translation / Hindi Meaning:

One dollar and eighty-seven cents was all Della had on Christmas Eve to buy a present for her husband Jim. In sacrificial devotion, she sold her glorious cascading brown hair for twenty dollars to purchase a platinum fob chain for Jim’s prized gold watch. When Jim returned home, he stared at her shorn hair in stunned amazement: for he had sold his gold watch to purchase the expensive set of tortoiseshell combs Della had long coveted! Though their material treasures were made temporarily useless, they were the wisest of all who give gifts--they were the Magi.

CHAPTER 3 -- VOCABULARY & GRAMMAR

Vocabulary Entries:

 khangashe (noun): sacrificial gift, offering of love

Ex: Christmas khangashe.

 sam (noun): head hair, long locks

Ex: Della-wui sam kapha.

 magibing (proper noun): The Magi, Wise Men from the East

Ex: Magibing thada.

Grammar Notes & Idiomatic Usage:

- Reciprocal sacrifice pattern: X sells A to buy for Y; Y sells B to buy for X.
- Tangkhul term for mutual devotion: 'khangayei eina kashang'.

Comprehension & Exercises:

[?] Contrast the material vs spiritual value of the two Christmas gifts.

[?] Translate the closing paragraph of O. Henry's story into Tangkhul.
